MY FOOTPRINTS

Every child feels different in some way, but Thuy feels "double different." She is Vietnamese American and she has two moms. Thuy walks home one winter afternoon, angry and lonely after a bully's taunts. Then a bird catches her attention and sets Thuy on an imaginary exploration. What if she could fly away like a bird? What if she could sprint like a deer, or roar like a bear? Mimicking the footprints of each creature in the snow, she makes her way home to the arms of her moms. Together, the three of them imagine beautiful and powerful creatures who always have courage - just like Thuy.

SELLING POINTS

- A second picture book by Bao Phi, author of the Caldecott-honor-winning A Different Pond

THE BRAVE CYCLIST: THE TRUE STORY OF A HOLOCAUST HERO

Once a skinny and weak child, Gino Bartali rose to become a Tour de France champion and one of cycling's greatest stars. But all that seemed unimportant when his country came under the grip of a brutal dictator and entered World War II on the side of Nazi Germany. Bartali might have appeared a mere bystander to the harassment and hatred directed toward Italy's Jewish people, but secretly he accepted a role in a dangerous plan to help them. Putting his own life at risk, Bartali used his speed and endurance on a bike to deliver documents Jewish people needed to escape harm. His inspiring story reveals how one person could make a difference against violence and prejudice during the time of the Holocaust.

SELLING POINTS

- ▶ Gino Bartali's life provides an inspiring story that merges sports and wartime heroics
- ▶ Bartali's little-known acts of heroism reveal how one person could make a difference against fascism and anti-Semitism
- ▶ Personal stories help young readers empathize with those who lived under the rule of brutal dictators

NEW Undercover BMX 9781496584533

Devin gave a small smile. He should have been happy. The rest of his team was. But if he was being honest, it had been a long time since he'd hit happy playing basketball.

Lately the pressure of being the star player weighed on him. Not to mention the demanding schedule. Practice, games, and weekend tournaments took up every minute of his free time.

It hadn't been like that when he'd first started playing. Back then, Devin and his friends had watched Andre message videos. They'd tried to do the coolest one-trick stunts in the park. Basketball had been the ultimate freedom.

But that was then. Now, basketball got Devin's feet sticky.

But a game winner is always nice. Devin thought, bringing his mind back to the game.

NEW TITLE

THE FRIENDSHIP LIE

Cora Davis's life is garbage. Literally. Her professor parents study what happens to trash after it gets thrown away, and Cora knows exactly how it feels--to be thrown away. Between her mom and dad separating and a fallout with her best friend, fifth grade for Cora has been a year of feeling like being tossed into the dumpster. But Cora has learned a couple of things from her parents' trash-tracking studies: Things don't always go where they're supposed to, and sometimes the things you thought you got rid of come back. And occasionally, one person's trash is another's treasure, which Cora and Sybella learn when they come across a diary detailing best-friendship problems. Told in two intertwining points of view, comes a warm, wry story of friendship, growing up, and being true to yourself. Written by Rebecca Donnelly, author of How to Stage a Catastrophe (an Indies Introduce and Indie Next List honoree), The Friendship Lie will speak to any reader who has struggled with what to hold on to and what to throw away.

SELLING POINTS

- Intertwining multiple perspectives allow readers to see conflicts from different angles, encouraging empathy and understanding
- Many readers this age experience similar family and friendship problems (parents going through divorce, fights with friends, lack of self confidence, etc.)
- This book will be a welcome source of comfort and hope for such readers. Theme of sustainability runs throughout the novel, providing a strong extended metaphor for dealing with emotions and relationship.

NEW The Friendship Lie 9781684460618

“Hey, talking about...” Sybella jumped down from the ottoman, hoping Martin wouldn’t follow her. Cora hadn’t said anything to her all week. Sybella had had more money to clear the air, but that was looking impossible. It wasn’t air anymore. It was fog. Or smog. It hovered between them, and whenever Sybella tried to open her mouth, she found she couldn’t breathe properly.

Now, hoping to get away from Martin, she went to the library to talk to Mr. Jackson about improving her opening moves for the next mini tournament, but Mr. Jackson wasn’t there. It’s not his. Though she was sitting at a lone table, clearing a stack of picture books with a disinterested sigh. How was Sybella so good all the time?

The hadn’t talked to him all week, either. They hadn’t been avoiding each other, but Sybella hadn’t been trying to talk to him. And she wasn’t sure she wanted to talk to him now. He probably wouldn’t take sides, but Sybella didn’t want to find out.

“Oh, sorry, I’ll just—” she began.

“No, wait,” said Sybella. “Can I ask you something?”

“Like, what?”

Kyle waved his finger at the chair across from him, and Sybella sat down. She’d seen just a of a minute when where a gap was in a bar and he peered out all his troubles to the bartender, who was wiggling down the bar
